

All about Seine-et-Marne

The Seine-et-Marne Museum: the ethnographic exhibition on the ground floor primarily features tools and work instruments once used in Seine-et-Marne for the rural and village economy.

Films showing the context in which these collections were used and the modern development of the activities complete this presentation.

The Mac Orlan room rotates successive presentations of original works related to the writer's life and work.

The museum also presents a long annual exhibition on a social topic and exhibitions featuring contemporary artists.

Between the two world wars, Mac Orlan welcomed artist friends from Montmartre to his home and the academician Goncourt. After 1950 he hosted many artists and writers, musicians, filmmakers, actors and media professionals. Many of these meetings took place at "La Moderne" inn, where the museum is now located.

PETIT-MORIN VALLEY Saint-Cyr sur-Morin

A typical small and bright country house was once the home of writer Pierre Mac Orlan. The Seine-et-Marne museum and a colourful courtyard, which hosted a replica of "Le Lapin Agile", a cabaret in Montmartre, during the roaring twenties can also be seen on this stroll.
