

The Montigny-Lencoup collection

On the first floor, the town hall offers a collection of objects discovered on its territory. Polished stones, metal objects from 2nd Iron Age or Roman Conquest, statues from the 17th century, World War I helmets... Numerous curiosities representing the town's voyage through history.

The church of Dontilly

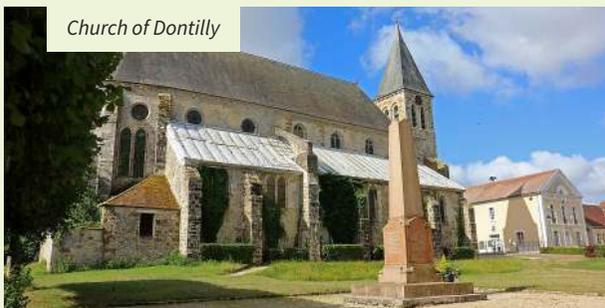

This church, which is a listed historic monument, is no longer a place of worship. Services are now held at église Notre-Dame in Donnemarie. Once separate towns and parishes, Donnemarie and Dontilly merged into a single entity in 1967.

Preuilly Abbey

In 1118 Thibaut, Count of Champagne, granted the land of Preuilly to the Cistercians. Father Arthaud and twelve monks founded Notre-Dame de Preuilly, the fifth daughter Cîteaux. Plagued by wars, the site suffered destruction and then, after the Revolution, the church was transformed in workshops for manufacturing saltpetre and the buildings were sold in batches.

In 1866, the estate was reunited and became a farm, which is now privately owned.
